

Planting the Seeds for a Greener Planet

We believe that the more connected you are to your soil, the more likely you are to take care of it. Thanks to Agromin's extensive outreach programs, we've reached thousands of people across Southern California every year through field trips, school gardens, local events and community celebrations.

School and community outreach:

AGROMIN FIELD TRIPS

Field trips to the Agromin composting facilities (grades 2 and up) allow students to see first-hand how leaves, grass clippings and brush are cleaned, chopped and naturally composted. Kids leave with a better understanding of how to use their own green materials recycling container and become enthusiastic advocates for using products made from recycled organic materials.

SCHOOL GARDENS

Every year, Agromin contributes soil products to school gardens across Southern California. Young gardeners get their hands dirty planting fruits, vegetables and flowers and Agromin representatives will take part in classroom discussions about the environmental value of recycling organic materials.

EARTH DAY CELEBRATIONS

Agromin is a proud supporter of many Earth Day and Arbor Day celebrations throughout Southern California. You can usually find us handing out soil to make sure gardens and trees get the right start, giving tips and offering our advice.

NONPROFIT GARDENS

If your nonprofit organization has a garden in need of soil, Agromin would be happy to help. We currently contribute soil products to many worthy projects throughout Southern California including Habitat for Humanity, TreePeople, Urban Farming and Ventura County Rescue Mission.
